Tim graduated from SUNY Oswego in 1984. Immediately after graduation, Tim joined the Rochester office of Price Waterhouse where he worked until the fall of 1991. He joined the regional public accounting firm of Bonadio, Insero & Co. where he worked until the Spring of 1993, at which time he joined the firm of Kenneth Bonn, Jr., CPA. In 1994 he became a partner with Ken in the firm of Bonn, Shortsleeve & Co.

Tim has provided professional tax, audit, accounting and valuation services to public companies and to closely held businesses in the areas of manufacturing, construction, not-for-profit, retailing, health care, and high-tech service industries. Tim is also President of LTP Solutions, LLC, a process improvement and efficiency consulting company. His responsibilities include advising and training small businesses on the benefits of improving efficiency using technology. He also works with businesses on developing strong internal policies and procedures.

Tim speaks frequently on various tax, sales and business efficiency topics including nationally for the AICPA. He has also written articles for the AICPA on the benefits of the "Paperless Office." Tim was selected as part of the Rochester Business Journal's class of 2000 "40 Under 40" up and coming business professionals. Tim is also the Past- President of the Rochester Chapter of the Epilepsy Foundation.
